Dear Parent/Guardian

The New Academic Year – 2024/25

Welcome back to the new school year! I trust you all had a restful and rewarding summer holiday. To our new students and parents in Year 12 I would like to extend a warm welcome to William Farr Sixth Form, along with a “welcome back” to everyone associated with Year 13.

As Head of Year 12 and 13, I consider it a great honour to work with such a talented group of students. Our entry requirements are challenging; consequently, all students should be proud of achieving the required grades to study here – each and every student is capable of achieving highly and progressing towards their chosen post 18 destination. I look forward to supporting all students in achieving to the best of their abilities and ensuring they can approach the next stages of their education with confidence, resilience and pride.

Our high standards were exemplified by a wonderful set of A Level results this summer with a 99.7% pass rate. Almost a quarter of all grades awarded were A* or A, with over half of all grades A*-B. In addition to this 92% of students who applied through UCAS were offered places at either their firm of insurance choice institution with over a third of students accepting places at Russell Group Universities.

As Year 13 students are already aware, the Sixth Form experience is different to life lower down the school. A-Level study differs significantly from that of GCSE. In each subject students receive 5 hours of teaching. They also have 2 lessons a week of supervised study and a PSHE lesson with their Form Tutor or an external speaker. The relationships that students build with their teachers are crucial; interactions are more collaborative and there is a greater focus on independence. To succeed it is essential for students to work outside of the classroom. As a rule of thumb, for every hour spent studying in lessons, an additional hour should be spent on homework or consolidating learning.

Consequently, it is vital that students balance the demands of A Level study with their commitments outside of school. As a school we actively encourage extracurricular and super curricular activities both in and outside of school; activities of this nature are excellent for student mental wellbeing and developing vital transferable skills. Sixth Form students have always played an essential role in our school community. In previous years, Sixth Form students have been actively involved in the wider school community as Heads of House, mentoring younger students and assisting at Open Evening to name but a few. Year 12 students will also have the opportunity to stand in elections to be members of the School Executive. It is an expectation that all students should participate in the wider leadership of the school in some way.

Additionally, whilst part time jobs can also help pupils develop a whole range of valuable transferable skills, it is important that students do not take on too much. As a school, we would recommend that students are employed for no more than 8 hours a week. Although I appreciate that students are keen to earn money, this should not be to the detriment of their studies.

Expectations of students remain very high within the Sixth Form. Whilst we do not have a uniform, we do have a Sixth Form Dress Code which students are expected to adhere to. Students are required to wear suitable dress for a school. A copy of this code can be found on the Sixth Form section of the school website. If students in the Sixth Form are unsuitably dressed, as determined by the school, then we reserve the right to ask students to return home to change and/or to not wear said items again. I would ask parents and students to familiarise themselves with the dress code; following consultation with both staff and students some key amendments have been made for the new school year.

Please can I also remind you that Sixth Form students are not allowed to have mobile phones in school. Mobile phones cause significant disruption to learning in other schools and William Farr School prides itself on not having this distraction. Interestingly, when I have spoken to students about this issue, they are generally supportive of the policy, recognising the benefits of not being distracted in school.

Sixth Form students who own laptops often find it beneficial to bring their devices to school. We are happy for students to do this; however this is entirely at the students own risk. All rules relating to ICT use on the school network apply to personal devices. This means that students should not access social media or messaging of any sort, take pictures, or play games. As I am sure you will agree, time in school needs to be used for study.

PSHE remains integral to the William Farr experience in Sixth Form. These lessons are essential in preparing students for life outside of school. In Sixth Form this term Year 12 will be focusing on the qualities required of Sixth Form students and the various post 18 pathways available to them. Year 13 students will also be focusing on their Post 18 pathways, with time dedicated to UCAS applications and research into all careers options.

As I am sure you are aware, attendance is essential to success. As previously, holidays in term time will not be authorised. Additionally, Sixth Form students cannot self-certify absences. I would appreciate it if all requests for planned absence should be emailed directly to me. I think it is also important to note that historically, punctuality has been an issue for some Sixth Form students. Please could you support the school in reminding students of the importance of attending school on time; inevitably lateness is something that simply will not be tolerated in the world of work.

Parents/Guardians are encouraged to develop close links with both student's Form Tutors and myself. Should you have any concerns or questions at any point during the year, please do not hesitate to contact the school. If your query is subject specific, please contact the relevant Head of Department. As Head of Year, I will endeavour to respond to phone calls the day they are made. However, I do also have teaching commitments in addition to my role as Head of Year and this may not always be possible. My email address is r.noon@williamfarr.lincs.sch.uk and Mrs Munro, Assistant Head of Year can be contacted on her email address, which is g.munro@williamfarr.lincs.sch.uk.

Finally, I look forward to seeing as many of you as possible at my Head of Year presentation on Monday 30 October. Details can be found in the letter emailed out to all parents and guardians last week. This session will closely follow the talk given last year and is more suitable for Year 12 students.

I look forward to establishing a productive and positive relationship with all of you.

Yours faithfully

Mr R Noon
Head of Year 12 and 13
